RANGELAND MONITORING ON PUBLIC GROUND

---

The Uinta County Conservation District (UCCCD) is expanding its involvement in Rangeland Monitoring as a response to the need for monitoring data in the following roles:

- To allow management to adapt to changing conditions (drought, invasive species etc.)
- To provide the data needed to complete the NEPA process (National Environmental Policy Act), which is essential for permit renewal on public lands.
- To protect both the agency and the permittee from litigation aimed at the discontinuance of livestock grazing on public lands.

UCCCD believes every public land grazing-permit should be equipped with the protection that rangeland monitoring provides. We highly encourage a combined effort between the UCCCD, the managing agency over the public land, and the permit holder towards building a monitoring database that can not only aid current management but also help ensure the persistence of the agricultural industry in Uinta County.

To start the process of rangeland monitoring on the public lands where you have grazing permits, please contact Grant Redden, whose number and email address are listed below.
